

“Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.” (Proverbs 22:6)

Dear Friends and Family,

4th Quarter 2020

Greetings! We have continued to lift you all in our prayers that the Lord’s hedge of protection surrounds you during Covid-19. Who would have thought that the start of 2020 would bring a drastic change in people’s mindset and priorities in their lives? However, the important point is to recognize that nothing happens by accident, God is more than able to take the worst situation and change it for our good for His glory.

The recent unrest in our country, as well as the world, has also changed the dynamic of how our children should be raised, as they are the future of this country. During the pandemic, when it comes to our children’s future, parents are left with no choice except to home school. Thus, we are honored that the Lord has used us as a vessel to write a few books, amongst which is a family devotional workbook series titled Journey to My Faith, simply a tool that involves the family as a godly unit, which is God’s family design. As we homeschooled our own children, we believed that our first priority has to raise our children on sound biblical teaching.

As I came from a Muslim country, I have seen the dedication Muslim parents have when it comes to their children’s religious/spiritual needs. Irrespective what the circumstances are, a Muslim parents discipline their children to go the Mosque or Madarasa (Islamic school) daily to memorize the whole Quran.

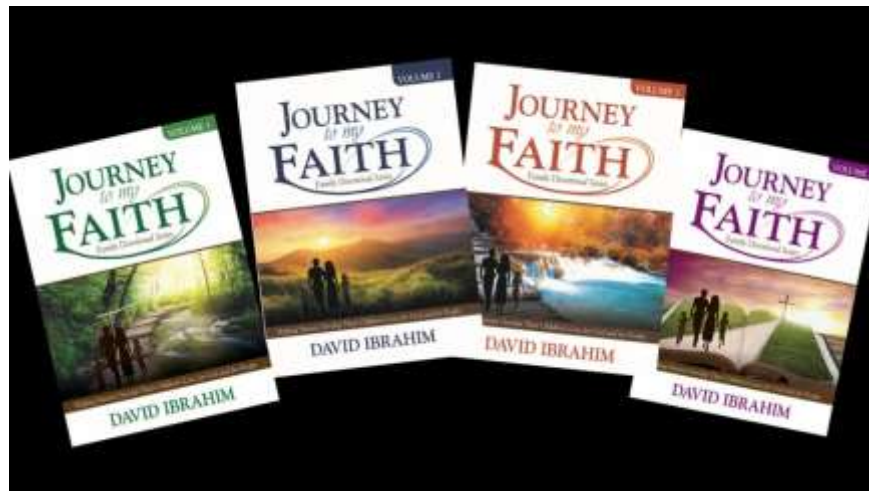

This is not to judge anyone, but according to Ken Ham and his co-writer in a book titled Already Gone, our American Churches have a major problem: Only 11% of our children after high school return to the church, while 89% reject Christianity. God has blessed us with children as a gift; therefore, God commands that we as parents are responsible for their spiritual upbringing.

The Journey to My Faith series is not intended to replace the Scripture but only to be an instrument for easier learning. Each lesson is planned to help children and parents learn the basic Biblical truth. The series will enrich children prayer lives and enable them to memorize two Bible verses each week, thus learning over 100 plus foundational Biblical verses.

The children will learn chronologically the theme, purpose and synopsis of each book of the Bible. Each lesson also increases their general knowledge, geography, fun facts and quotes from the famous and known personalities.

We want to offer you this additional resource to assist you in nurturing your children spiritually. The four Journey to My Faith cost $60.00. We have reduced the price to $45.00 plus shipping. We believe God will use this Bible-based material mightily for His glory. Attached is one week of \(PDF\)
